

Privacy Policy

Tomorrow:Today Foundation collects and administers a range of personal information for the purposes of communication, administration, promotion and events. This Privacy Policy covers how Tomorrow:Today Foundation treats the personal information it collects and receives, including information related to the use of our website.

Policy

The Board of Tomorrow:Today Foundation is committed to protecting the privacy of personal information which the organisation collects, holds and administers, including information provided by users of our online communications. (Personal information is information which directly or indirectly identifies a person.)

Tomorrow:Today Foundation is bound by laws which impose specific obligations when it comes to handling information. The organisation has adopted the following principles contained as minimum standards in relation to handling personal information.

Tomorrow:Today Foundation will:

- Collect only information which the organisation requires for its primary function;
- Use and disclose personal information only for our primary functions or a directly related purpose, or for another purpose with the person's express consent;
- Automatically receive and record information on our server logs from visitors' browsers, including IP address, cookies, and the pages visited. This data is only used in the aggregate.
- Store personal information securely, protecting it from unauthorised access; and
- Provide stakeholders with access to their own information, and the right to seek its correction.

Tomorrow:Today Foundation will not:

- Disclose your email address, telephone number or other contact details to any third parties.
- Sell any personal information, to anyone, for any reason whatsoever.
